

I have had peaceful dinners since the implementation of Indiana's no call law. The FCC should concentrate on the Cable Industry rather than disrupt an Indiana law that has provided families relief from mostly disreputable companies calling for money. If the FCC wants to protect citizens it should leave this law in place and concentrate on areas where it's protection is needed. Again, I stress looking into the Cable Industry.